Thanks for sending today. We met with the state yesterday and they are anxious to get our comments. My management (Mike Montgomery) committed to a meeting within the next two weeks to discuss our comments and I will need your technical support for the call. I am looking for your availability later in the week of Feb 29. Lisa will assign this if its not already included under the TDM. Let me know if there are any questions. Yes, we will review this checklist and work with you to finalize and send to the state. Realistically its not even going to go out until the end of next week or Feb 29.

Subject: Arroyo Grande checklist

Attached is an updated completeness check for the Arroyo Grande aquifer exemption. We updated the checklist we developed in December to incorporate our review of information associated with the public comment process (the larger additions are highlighted in the attached). Where appropriate based on the new information from the State, we included more detailed discussions about where any inadequacies lie, supported with examples of public comments to which it doesn't appear that the state has fully responded. (NOTE: this is not a complete evaluation of California's responsiveness table; that would take some time to do.)

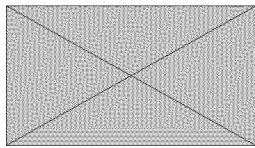

Also, in the course of reviewing the public comments, we began to look at information in the application (e.g., about the aquifers) to identify whether information exists in the application to address the public comments. We added some notes in the attached; however none of the additional information we present in here changes the overall findings we had in December.

Please let me or Anna know if you have any questions.
